

IN THE SPECIFICATION

Please replace the paragraph spanning the end of page 1 and the beginning of page 2 with the following:

--However, the Internet is generally recognized as being a best-effort type network, so that the user has had to decide whether to purchase the content, that is, whether to pay for the content, when he or she does not know whether the service is really worth the payment from the viewpoint of delivery quality. This has been a major psychological barrier for the user when using such service.--